IKE SENT TO BED; 'UPSET STOMACH'

PRAYS FOR AMERICAN FIANCE — Haru Sueyama, Japanese fiancee of American GI William Girard, prays before a family shrine in Kagohara that he will be freed of a manslaughter charge in the killing of a Japanese woman. She told newsmen that she prayed "that God should make him free."

Ike Expected to Hold Firm in Girard Case

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower sees no choice but to "stick to his guns" on the Girard case, it was learned authoritatively today.

Louis Girard, older brother of embattled GI William S. Girard, sped here aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Liberty Limited" train from Ottawa, Ill., in a bid for a face-to-face appeal to Eisenhower not to let his brother be tried by a Japanese court.

The other Girard, accompanied by his wife Shirley, carried 325 "color" petitions signed by almost 7,000 persons protesting the U S decision to let Japan try the 21-year-old Army specialist whose case has aroused an international furore.

Eisenhower was represented as taking the position that the United States has made its decision to turn William over to Japan for trial, and has given its word as a nation and cannot renege now.

Major Court Test

The Girard case may be headed for a major court test in this country over confidential government documents. The United Press was informed the government will move in federal district court here Tuesday to quash subpenas obtained by Girard's defense attorneys calling for production in court of all written records in the case.

Instead the government will present affidavits containing only statements of law and facts in the case. These will be turned over to Federal Judge Joseph C McGarraghy who has ordered the government to show cause on Tuesday why Girard should not be returned from Japan.

American attorneys in Japan said Girard had "shocking" advice when he agreed to being represented by a Japanese lawyer. One American attorney experienced in Japanese law said the appointment of an attorney is filed in a Japanese court along with the charges, and that constitutes an acknowledgement of Japanese jurisdiction.

Girard, in a telephone interview with the United Press in Tokyo,

Lawler Takes Witness Stand In Trial of Turnpike Fraud

HARRISBURG (UP) — State's attorneys promised Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler will have "plenty to say" when he takes the witness stand today in the trial of nine men accused of defrauding the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Court will reconvene at 11 a.m. edt.

Lawler was expected to be the prosecution's first witness in the second week of the trial in Dauphin County Court. District Attorney Huette F. Dowling and Deputy Attorney General Vincent G. Panan said Lawler will explain why he voted, as an ex officio member of the commission to award a $7,798,000 contract to the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading.

The contract, executed in February, 1955, was for the filling of abandoned coal mines under the Northeastern Extension in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties. The commission paid some $6,800,000 to the firm under the contract before it was terminated by the administration of Gov. George M Leader.

Two Republican commissioners who voted for the contract award Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, commission chairman at the time, and James F. Torrance, Export, suspended pending the outcome of the trial, are on trial for conspiracy and misconduct in office for their part in the negotiation.

Charge "Favored" Position

Democratic appointees G. Franklin McSorley, also suspended as chairman pending other charges, and Lawler were not named in the indictments against Evans and Torrance on which the current trial is based.

David E. Watson, the fifth commission member who approved the contract, died last year.

The state contends that Manu-Mine held a "favored" position in its dealings with the turnpike and that the mine-filling contract was obtained without the required prior approval of the state Highways Department, without competitive bidding, and without usual provisions to insure proper execution.

Charles W. Stickler Jr., and Clayton A Landsidle, president and vice president, respectively, of the Reading firm, are also on trial for cheating by fraudulent pretenses. The state charged they made a 100 per cent profit under the terms of the contract.

Others on trial include:

John D Paul, former assistant chief engineer for the commission; Theodore S. Paul, former commission legal counsel; Paul J. McNeill, former commission finance director; and E. J. Donnelly and G. J. Hudert, engineers for the J. E. Greiner Co., Baltimore, former consulting engineering firm for the turnpike.

TELLS OF 'PRESSURE' — Ousted Brooklyn labor leader Joseph Tenczar tells Senate probers that New York City employers were "pressured" into contributing money to a swank 1956 testimonal dinner that netted $57,000 for a Bakery Workers union vice president. Tenczar was fired earlier this year as business agent of Local No 3 for accepting a $125 gift from management.

Doctors Claim Illness Is not Very 'Serious'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower was reported by the White House at 12:20 p. m. (e.d.t.) today to be "progressing very satisfactorily" after a "stomach upset" which required cancellation of all official engagements.

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower was confined to his bed today with "an upset stomach."

He became ill during the night and vomited three or four times. The White House said he was feeling more comfortable this morning.

A heart specialist examined the President, and a specialist on internal disorders was called in "as a precautionary measure."

"There is no indication that this digestive upset is related in any way to the President's recent ileitis operation or his heart attack," said Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

The President's operation for ileitis—a form of intestinal obstruction—was performed a year ago Sunday.

Ordered To Bed

Eisenhower's temperature and blood pressure were normal. But his physician, Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, advised him to stay in bed. All engagements for the day were cancelled.

Hagerty said the stomach upset was "apparently caused by something he ate which disagreed with him."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was overheard telling Chairman Thomas S Gordon (D-Ill.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee that Eisenhower's condition was "nothing serious"; that he had "eaten some blueberry pie" which apparently disagreed with him.

Nevertheless, news of the President's latest illness hit the New York stock market hard. Stocks dropped one billion dollars and tickers were running 15 minutes behind.

Col Thomas W. Mattingly, heart specialist from Walter Reed Army Medical Center went to the White House this morning and tested the President by electrocardiograph "purely for precautionary purposes."

The President's newest illness struck him exactly one year to the day after his ileitis operation.

After reporters noticed that scheduled presidential visitors were going in to the President's office by the front entrance but leaving through other exits this morning, Hagerty called the newsmen to his office shortly after 10 a.m. and made this announcement:

"The President had an upset stomach early this morning, apparently caused by something he ate which disagreed with him."

Dr Snyder recommended that the President's engagements be cancelled today and that the President remain in bed.

"The President's temperature is normal as is his blood pressure. Electrocardiograph tracing show no changes from the many that have been made since his recovery from his heart attack.

"There is no indication that this digestive upset is related in any

County Sale of Airport Site Okayed by Court

Sale of the old Westmoreland County airport property in Upper Burrell Twp. for $85,000 to the Aluminum Co. of America has received approval of the Westmoreland County courts.

The property consists of eight separate tracts of land containing a total of 334.497 acres and had been purchased by a previous board of commissioners in 1946 for $53,739.68.

The county, after acquiring the airport site, set up an authority, but little if any progress was ever made towards developing the land.

In 1947 plans called for an expenditure of $400,000 to build the airport, a Class II airfield with two runways or strips each 2,500 feet long and 300 feet wide. No provision at the time was made for hangars for planes nor for an administration building.

In 1949 the airport authority reported to the commissioners it was unable to raise funds for improvements, even by the sale of bonds. The communities of New Kensington, Arnold and Vandergrift, although trying to aid the financing, could raise only $24,000. The project has lain dormant although in 1951 the authority requested $94,000 from the commissioners.

The commissioners early this spring were offered $85,000 for the airport site by Alcoa which had decided to expand its facilities for research work. The commissioners accepted the offer.

Burgess Won't Be Responsible For Police Firing

West Brownsville Burgess James Forsythe Saturday refused to take any responsibility in the borough's police department situation.

Borough Council earlier in the week voted out the police department for "economic reasons", leaving the community without full-time police protection.

Forsythe said his office is responsible for the work of the police department "when there is a police department." He said the responsibility for the existence or nonexistence of a police department is up to the council.

However, the burgess said he has the power to call out policemen in an emergency. If citizens need police protection they are to contact his office.

In the background of the case is council's fight to oust Mel Dukins as chief of police.

Multiple Civil Trial Started In Washington

A multiple civil trial started Saturday in Washington County courts before Judge David H. Wilson.

The suits arose out of an auto accident on the "Pumpkin Seat" in Fallowfield Twp. March 26, 1956, involving cars operated by Martin Boncarosky, of R. D. Charleroi, and Joseph Gary, of Canton Twp.

Gary was driving a car owned by Irvin Johnson, Finleyville. Peter and Marie Craig Elsworth, were passengers in the car Gary was driving.

The Crigs are plaintiffs against Boncarosky while both Johnson and Gary are additional defendants in that case.

In addition, Irvin and Tillie Johnson are plaintiffs against Boncarosky, while Boncarosky is also claiming damages for alleged personal injury.

Service Station Broken Into In Charleroi

The Mon Valley Esso Station at First St. and Fallowfield Ave., Charleroi, was broken into yesterday afternoon or this morning but nothing was reported missing according to Charleroi police today.

Alfred Agamedi and Cy Cardinale co-owners, discovered the attempted burglary and said it happened between 1:30 p. m. yesterday and 7:30 this morning.

Entrance was gained through a rear door.

Entry was also made at the Lonz Transportation Co., located in a side room of the station. Again nothing was reported missing.

The burglar bypassed tools, auto accessories and money, it was learned.

CIO Building Burglarized; Cash Is Taken

A burglar broke into the C I O building at Eighth St. and Donner Ave., Monessen, late Saturday night or early yesterday morning and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash after rifling a pinball machine in the bowling alleys located upstairs, police reported today.

Patrolman Nello DiBiaso discovered the burglary when he checked the building about 1 a. m. yesterday.

The burglar gained entrance by removing a piece of cardboard used to cover a broken section of a window. He reached through, unlocked the door and made his way to the bowling alleys.

Body of Frogman Is Believed to Be Crabb

PORTSMOUTH, England (UP)—British pathologists performed an autopsy today on the handless, headless body of a frogman in hopes of solving a major mystery of the cold war.

Many Britons were convinced the body was that of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a monocle-wearing war hero who vanished April 19, 1956 while making secret dives near the Soviet cruiser that brought Russian top leaders to Britain.

The Russians were Communist Party Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The investigation that followed reached all the way up to Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden—who refused to tell all to Parliament.

The Russians protested they had spotted a British skindiver between the cruiser Ordzhonikidze and an accompanying destroyer. Crabb was never seen again and there was speculation the Russians kidnaped him or sent out their own skindivers to kill him while he spied out the secret underwater lines of the warship.

Eden, pressed with parliamentary demands for an explanation limited his answers to an apology to the Russians—that any such cloak and dagger mission had been undertaken without his knowledge.

The Navy was less informative. It said Crabb disappeared on a diving mission and was "presumed dead." There was no further word from Britain or Russia and the Crabb disappearance became swallowed up in mystery.

The mystery was revived Sunday when the body of a man wearing a rubber diving suit was found floating in Chichester Harbor, only 10 miles from the place where the three Russian ships were anchored. The find was made by the station living boat Red Goose.

Leader in Last-ditch Fight to Save Budget

HARRISBURG (UP) — The drive for final adjournment will pick up steam in the General Assembly this week, with the quitting date hinging on settlement of the controversy over Republican slashes in Gov. George M. Leader's budget.

The governor opened a last-ditch fight to restore most of the cuts which he contends will seriously impair state services, particularly in the field of mental health.

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom warned "not to put too much faith" in reports that the state is going to have a lot more revenue without any new taxes.

Bloom said until the GOP knew exactly how much money had been spent by each department during the last few months they would not know what the "true picture is."

Bloom said the governor originally told the GOP there would be 29 million dollars left over in state funds at the close of the fiscal period last May 31 and nearly five million dollars left from the 1953-55 period. However, Bloom said that because of a "spending spree" by departments recently the final amount would be between 20 and 25 million dollars.

"This means that from eight to 13 million dollars of the increased revenue has already been spent by Gov. Leader and that instead of a deficit being reduced by 21 million dollars it has only been reduced by less than 10 million dollars," he said.

Bloom added that Republicans figure the fiscal program will look like this:

Incoming revenue, $1,500,000,000; deficit, $70,000,000; appropriations $1,395,000,000; increased school subsidies and the state's share of the cost for state workers' retirement plans, $35,000,000.

The state Budget Bureau said it collected $1,267,810,205 in the two-year fiscal period ending last May 31, leaving a 62 million dol-

Frances (Buddy) Hudock 19 son of Mrs. Mary Hudock, of Webster, is in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital recovering from burns received while at work last week at a gasoline service station owned by J. A. Scott on Route 51.

The youth was servicing a car when an unidentified motorist struck a match to light a cigar. Fumes from the gas tank ignited burning Hudock's both legs, right arm and hip.

Two youths visiting the station, Bobby Wassil and George Johnson of Rostraver Twp., prevented Hudock from being more seriously burned when they wrapped him in a sheet of canvass and extinguished his flaming clothes.

Damages to the car and gas pump were not heavy.

P&WVa Wants To Put Siding Track at Rehoboth

The Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway Co has made application to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to approve the construction of a siding track to serve the Rehoboth Industrial District of the Monongahela Valley Area Enterprises, Inc.

A public hearing on the application will be held Wednesday, June 6, at 10 a. m. at the Westmoreland County courthouse in Greensburg.

The railway's construction plan call for the laying of 3,000 feet of siding from an area near Rehoboth Church to the industrial site. The proposed track will cross Rehoboth Church Rd.

The 3,000 additional feet will not cover the entire industrial site, however. It will be the responsibility of MVAE to install any additional siding track.

MVAE is the joint project of six communities in the immediate area. It is a 20-acre plot adjacent to Route 981 in Rostraver Twp., planned specifically for industrial expansion.

Just recently, Keystone Homes, Inc., makers of pre-fabricated homes, became the first industry to locate in the district. Operations in the new plant began about three weeks ago.

Hempfield Twp. Tax Collector Recount Ordered

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Judge Richard D Laird today ordered a recount of Democratic votes cast in the May primary election for tax collector in Hempfield Twp. of Westmoreland County.

The judge acted on petitions asking that ballot boxes from six districts be opened. The petitions, each signed by three electors, asked a recount in Wegley, Adamsburg, Wendel - Herminie, Haydenville, Bovard, and New Stanton.

The petitions were filed on behalf of Albert Booth, the present tax collector, who lost his bid for renomination by 78 votes to Joseph Kavel.

The petitions contended that fraud, or an error on the general returns had been committed in computing the votes or in marking the ballots.

Judge Laird ordered the recount to begin June 18 and named a board of three attorneys to make it.

Monessen Man Asking Damages

Roger Toman of Monessen, has filed suit in Westmoreland County courts for damages of more than $2,500 against Nello Rebattini, of Star Junction, following a motor accident last Oct. 7.

Toman claims that an auto he was driving was struck by Rebattini's car at the intersection of Routes 481 and 51 and as a result Toman suffered severe injuries and his vehicle was damaged.

Dulles Says U. S. not Disarming on Promises

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that the United States will never disarm "merely because of Soviet promises to behave."

Dulles said it would be reckless folly for this nation to do that.

He said however that the United States is "actively seeking, through United Nations procedures, ways whereby armaments can be safely reduced."

Dulles made the statement before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in defense of President Eisenhower's foreign and budget. He said the aid funds are needed to bolster U S allies around the world against the threat of Communist aggression.

The task of world disarmament, Dulles said, "is immensely complicated by the fact that it is not safe for us to be alert and weaken the military dispositions which protect us and our allies because of Soviet promises. There must be dependable supervision and control of all promises and procedures to assure that we may not be victimized by promises that are false."

His testimony came as U S disarmament negotiator Harold E Stassen concluded weekend conferences here and prepared to fly back to London, where he will lay the American "limited" disarmament plan before Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

12 Are Killed in State Traffic Crashes

Two Die in Crash Near McKeesport

By UNITED PRESS

Head - on collisions, drivers swerving off the road while asleep at the wheel, and other highway accidents claimed the lives of at least 12 motorists and pedestrians in Pennsylvania over the weekend.

An Air Force veteran who survived a Korean plane crash and 30 World War II bombing missions and a librarian who had just been awarded a masters degree were killed in a three-car crash near Reading.

In another multiple-death wreck two Allegheny County women were killed in a two-car pileup at McKeesport.

The fatal wrecks:

Reading: Kenneth Myers, Temple, Pa., an Air Force veteran of Korea and World War II, and Mrs James W. Patterson, 46, a Reading librarian, died Saturday night in a three-car collision near Reading. Richard Brunner, 30, a Reading journalist, also was injured. Police said Brunner, who was driving with Mrs. Patterson as a passenger, swerved to avoid a collision but was struck by Myer's foreign-make car.

Mrs. Patterson, a daughter of the late state House Speaker Wilson Sarig, was the widow of former Pittsburgh city clerk James W. Patterson, who also served in the state assembly.

McKeesport: Mrs. Laura V. Hait, White Oak, and Mrs. Florence Moritz, McKeesport, were killed Sunday when their automobile was smashed into by a vehicle driven by William Reynolds, 19, Elrama.

Biglerville: Edward E. Shaner, 28, Gettysburg, died Sunday when his automobile collided with a truck on Route 34 near Biglerville. The truck driver, Charles C. Croft, 63, Westminster, Md., escaped without injury.

Altoona: Wayne J. Campbell, 20, Bellwood, suffered fatal injuries Sunday when his automobile was struck by a truck in Altoona.

Draw Up Affidavits

Army and Defense Department lawyers worked all day Sunday drawing up the affidavits for presentation to Judge McGarraghy. U.S. Attorney Oliver Gash said they will be "full and fair statements of the evidence available to the government."

He said the government would prefer to settle the issue on the question of law involved but will turn the evidence over to the court to decide whether they should be handed to Girard's attorneys. One of the GI's attorneys indicated the court will be asked to "examine all documents in the case to them."

The case could cause a major legal clash. The Supreme Court recently ruled the FBI must turn over to the defense reports from FBI informants it wants to put on the stand in criminal cases. Dayton M. Harrington, one of Girard's American lawyers, said the Supreme Court ruling was "irrelevant" to the issue of documents in the Girard case.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, all of whom were subpoenaed by Girard's lawyers, will not appear in court, spokesmen said. They said the subpoenas were considered dempurrers for papers, not the persons of the officials.

'MAYFLOWER' NEARS PLYMOUTH

HERE WE SEE the Puritans as later generations liked to remember them, landing from the Mayflower with prayers on the "stern and rock-bound coast of Massachusetts Bay," now known as Plymouth

Light Winds Slowing Progress of Mayflower

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UP)—Light winds today slowed the progress of the Mayflower II on the homeward leg of its Atlantic crossing.

The 92-foot square rigger, replica of the Mayflower that carried the Pilgrims to America, was 65 miles south of Nantucket lightship at 9 a.m. edt.

The Mayflower reported making about 2 knots in light winds as it sailed toward Provincetown on the tip of Cape Cod.

It is about 109 miles from Nantucket to Provincetown where the vessel was expected tonight or early Tuesday, depending on the winds. From Provincetown, the Mayflower II will cross the 25 miles to Plymouth.

A plane caravan of newsmen and photographers flew over the ship Sunday as she plunged and yawed in the heaviest seas yet encountered in the 3,500-mile voyage. Northeast Airlines pilot George Steers fixed the vessel's position at about 192 miles south-southwest of Nantucket lightship, 340 miles from Plymouth harbor.

But later radio messages reported that gale-force winds held up the Mayflower's northerly progress nearly 10 hours Saturday night. The ship's latest position was reported as 130 miles south of Nantucket lightship or some 280 miles from its destination.

The 180-ton Mayflower wiggled her stern like a broad-beamed circus girl as she lumbered along. She heaved in the white-capped swells apparently content just to maintain course. Attempts to communicate with the ship by radio failed but she responded to the plane's salute by dipping her ensign.

Earlier, Australian-born skipper Cmdr. Alan Villiers radioed reception committee officials here that strong winds had forced shortening of sail. When the ship's yellow-gold sides were spotted Sunday she was carrying only a fore and mainsail and laboring against breaking seas.

Arrival at Provincetown, scene of the historic signing of the Pilgrim Compact in 1620, will bring Public Health Service, customs and immigration officers aboard the ship. The following day a Coast Guard cutter escorted by a colorful fleet of private yachts will tow the Mayflower to a wild welcome here.

Nixon Spends Day At Senate Post

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon planned to spend the day at his usual post at the Senate.

"When most of us have a cold or an upset stomach, it is not news," Nixon told reporters in commenting on the President's illness. "When he (Eisenhower) does it is. Most of us expect to see him back at his office tomorrow morning."

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland after calling the White House, told reporters at noon that "they feel much better over there." He said, however, that it was still uncertain whether the President would hold his weekly conference Tuesday with Republican congressional leaders.

Today in Congress:

House GOP Members Polled on Southern Civil Rights Actions

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration leaders conducted a poll today to find out where House Republicans stood on the key Southern proposal for weakening President Eisenhower's civil rights program.

Southerners have conducted an all-out drive for a jury trial amendment which administration supporters claim would wreck the bill. Some Southerners estimated they would need at least 70 to 75 Northern Republican votes for the amendment to carry.

Floor debate on the measure was scheduled to end late today. Voting on some 30 Southern-backed amendments begins Tuesday with a final vote on the entire bill expected later this week.

The key amendment would require jury trials for persons accused of violating federal injunctions in civil rights cases.

In the face of earlier Southern claims of victory, GOP leaders began polling Republican members last week. They hoped to have the polling completed by today.

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) presented the amendment would fail to pick up the needed GOP support. Another key Republican said no more than 65 Republicans would vote for it.

Other congressional news:

Natural Gas. President Eisenhower wrote Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) he has dropped his insistence on including two administration - sponsored amendments in the natural gas bill. Harris, chairman of the House Commerce Committee and author of the gas bill, said the President's action considerably improved chances for passage of the measure.

Television: A House anti-trust subcommittee accused the Federal Communications Commission of assuming an "air of informality" in dealing with the television industry that "treads dangerously close" to violating the law. The group called for an investigation of the industry to determine if there is a monopoly. The report also called on the FPC to adopt a code of ethics to eliminate any doubt about the propriety of its operations.

Foreign Aid: The House Foreign Aid Committee opened hearings on President Eisenhower's $3,865,000,000 foreign aid program. The committee summoned Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as leadoff witness.

Power: Sen. John Carroll (D-Colo.) accused the Idaho Power Co. of being "downright deceitful" in obtaining fast tax write-offs for its three dams on the Snake River. He said the write-off benefits granted the company by the Office of Defense Mobilization would cost the government 83 million dollars in revenue.

was to the President's recent operation on to his heart attack."

The President has been exceptionally active recently.

Last week he flew to Florida to watch naval maneuvers off the Florida coast for two days. He flew back Friday afternoon and addressed a Republican meeting here Saturday. He played golf in a drizzle and Sunday night he received an honorary degree at American University here after participating in a ground breaking ceremony in a slight rain.

Snyder remained at the White House throughout the night.

Mattingly, an expert on Eisenhower's heart, arrived during the early morning to take the electrocardiograph test.

Hagerty said he "would assume" that later in the morning Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commandering officer of Walter Reed and a surgeon specialist on intestinal disorders, also would come to the White House "as a precautionary measure."

Hagerty said according to his information, that the President's ailment was one of the stomach rather than the intestinal tract. He said the doctors did not know what food caused the upset.

Hagerty released this morning that before he and the President left the White House shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday for the American University ceremony, the President complained of nausea and said "I must be coming down with something." He told Eisenhower, according to Hagerty, "Sir, you look a little edgy at the academic ceremony." He returned to the White House shortly after 10 p.m. edt and immediately called for Snyder who arrived about 10:20 p.m. Snyder remained at the White House throughout the night.

DESERTED FOR COMMUNISM — Abandoned in Jersey City, N. J., Mrs. Olga Samoilow (right) describes how she hid her one year old daughter, Helen, and two year old son, Valery, in fear her husband, Igor Samoilow (left) might kidnap them when he sailed for Communist Russia. Refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, the decision of Samoilow and another man to redefect is cloaked with mystery.

Billy Graham Issues Challenge to Soviet

NEW YORK (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham challenged Soviet leaders Sunday night to permit him to carry his "crusade for Christ" throughout Russia.

Given the opportunity to preach unrestricted, Graham said, he could win more converts to Christianity in Russia than in any other country he has visited during his seven-year-old crusade.

But the 38-year-old evangelist said he would go to Russia only if he could have complete freedom of movement and was able to preach wherever he desired.

"I would certainly like to challenge them (Soviet leaders) to allow us to go to the crossroads in the towns and villages and preach the gospel of Christ."

Graham, appearing on "Meet The Press" over the National Broadcasting Company, said he was convinced that "the greatest religious revival in history would take place in the Soviet Union."

Conversions during the Russian phase of his crusade for Christ would be "far greater than in India, London and the United States," the North Carolina evangelist said.

Two years ago, Graham said, he had been invited by a group of Russian Baptists to visit the Soviet Union. But he said the trip fell through when American-Soviet relations "took a little turn for the worse."

Asked how he felt about continued nuclear tests, Graham suggested that the United States consider abandonment of such tests.

"I would like to see what would happen," Graham said, "if the United States announced to the world that they were stopping nuclear affairs, he emphasized, however, that he was speaking from a moral, not a scientific, viewpoint.

Queried about racial segregation, Graham said there was none at any of his meetings, including those in the South.

Lebanese Election Victory Is Big Boost for West

Egypt-Syrian Axis Further Isolated Today

By UNITED PRESS

Premier Sami El Solh of Lebanon and his pro-Western government won a major parliamentary election victory today that further isolated the Egyptian-Syrian axis from the other Arab nations.

Election of nearly all the government candidates in the Sunday balloting was seen in Lebanon as a rejection of leftist political attempts to tie Lebanon to Syria and Egypt.

The balloting was for 22 of the 66 seats at stake in the one-house legislature. The remainder will be decided in elections each of the following three Sundays.

Belief that Lebanon was moving away from Syria and Egypt was heightened by a message from Lebanese President Camile Chamoun to King Hussein of Jordan and King Saud of Saudi Arabia in Amman asking God's guidance in achieving Arab aims.

The Saud visit to Jordan was expected to wean Hussein further from Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser although there has been no official statement that the old Arab alliance had been broken or badly bent.

Egypt's semi - official Middle East News Agency indicated a worsening of Egyptian-Jordan relations today with a dispatch from Beirut, accusing Jordan of expelling two Egyptian officials in a "military plot."

Syrian Premier Sabri El Assali meanwhile attacked the Baghdad Pact and broadcast at dictation-speed to the Middle East an Izvestia editorial declaring that the give-power pact is "an instrument of American imperialism."

Prisoners Flee; Deputy Sheriffs Facing Hearing

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two deputy sheriffs, who allowed a prisoner to dupe them with one of the oldest ruses in the world, today faced hearings on neglect of duty charges.

Gilbert Waters, 29 a burglar serving a 1½-to-3 year term in Western Pennsylvania, persuaded the deputies, Timothy Toomey and Ralph Mancuso, to remove his handcuffs while attending the funeral of his late uncle, Thomas Toner, Saturday afternoon.

Waters, who had been taken from the prison under court order to attend the funeral, told the deputies he wanted to talk with his mother alone and requested a special favor to remove the manacles.

The prisoner walked past his mother and out the back door while his guardians waited in another room.

The escape sparked a police search throughout the Western Pennsylvania and neighboring states.

Leader Vetoes Per Capita Rise

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has vetoed legislation to permit school districts to double their per capita tax.

The bill would have permitted the districts to increase the levy from $5 to $10.

In his veto message the governor said:

"Although I recognize the pressure which rising school costs place on local school tax sources, I believe it is inequitable and unwise to increase the permissible ceiling on the most regressive tax source while retaining present tax limitations on the more equitable existing revenue sources."

Miss Mon Valley Parade Rescheduled

Tonight at 6 o'clock the Monessen Junior Women's Club will make a second effort to give the people of the Monongahela Valley a view of the Miss Mon Valley Pageant contestants. A parade planned for Saturday afternoon had to be postponed due to the rain and has been rescheduled for this evening.

The parade will leave Monessen at 6 and follow the route originally announced through Webster to Monongahela, back to Donora, Belle Vernon, Charleroi and return to Monessen.

Riding in the motorcade will be Miss Mon Valley of 1956, Mrs. Kenneth Bell and the girls who have been announced as finalists in the Wednesday evening presentation at Twin Coaches. They are:

Frances Peroney, Carole Lou Wasicek, Alice Steinmiller, Phyllis Silvania and Carol Bernardo, of Belle Vernon; Donna Bellone, Rosalie Culp and Gloria Salotti, of Monessen; Pat Marietta, of Charleroi; Dena Morris, of Waynesburg and Carolyn Ghrist, of Claysville. Both of the latter are students at California State Teachers College.

The local club has secured as judges Gloria Abdou, director of women's activities at Radio Station WCAE, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Arthur J. Morley, of Tarentum, a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City, who directed the pageant last year and attended the Miss Pennsylvania contest; Leonard Mendlowitz, drama critic on a Pittsburgh newspaper; Earl Wheeler of the Wheeler Modeling School and Carl Ide, KDKA-TV newscaster.

Lost 12 Hours In Dense Woods Near Grove City

GROVE CITY, Pa. (UP) — Twelve hours of wandering around in a dense woods after she became lost while attending a college reunion picnic put Jean Morrow of Pittsburgh in a hospital, today. Doctors treated her for extreme exhaustion.

Venango County authorities formed a 50-member search party Sunday night when Miss Morrow was reported missing from the picnic area about 11 miles south of Franklin along Route 8.

The graduate of the Grove City College class of 1947 was reported missing at about 6 p.m. when some of her former classmates found Miss Morrow's purse and other possessions in the area.

She was found at about 9:30 p.m. about a mile from the picnic area. Members of the search party said she was too exhausted to explain what had happened.

Man Kills Five Of His Family; Takes Own Life

TORONTO (UP)—A 36-year-old Scottish immigrant killed five members of his family Sunday and then committed suicide by driving his car into a concrete abutment.

John Sinclair, an electrician who has been in Canada for nine years, battered to death his 33-year-old wife Florence, his son, Ian, 7, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair, of Saltcoats, Ayrshire, Scotland, who were on a two-month holiday, and strangled his 2½-year-old daughter Joy in her crib.

Sinclair then changed his blood-spattered clothes, and left a note on the bedroom table and another on the front door reading, "Whoever is first, don't come, please call the police." He then drove to his death.

Sinclair left a farewell note written on the backs of five envelopes which were carefully laid in the correct order to be read. Police did not release its contents, but Whitworth described it as "rambling, not something you or I would write, but enough to tell us he killed them."

Pitt Increases Tuition Rates 43 Per Cent

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh today announced a 43 per cent increase in most tuition rates effective June 14.

Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield said the $16 a credit hour charged most undergraduates and general graduate students would be increased to $23 with corresponding increases in flat charges for certain professional schools.

He said the increased rates would be in addition to those previously announced for the School of Medicine and the Graduate School of Public Health.

Litchfield said the increases were necessary to increase faculty salaries, expand services and meet rising operating costs.

"The increase has been adopted by the board of trustees with great reluctance," Litchfield said. "One of the factors which has contributed to their decision has been the disappointment in the amount of state support for general maintenance we understand will be available to use in the coming biennium."

Four Held as Burglar Suspects

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Four men, accused of breaking into a beer distributing agency and a grill here, were held for court today by Magistrate Frederick H. Bradley.

Arraigned were Peter Kaminsky, 28, of Duquesne; James and Robert Haynick, 22, all of McKeesport.

The four was the second group of suspected burglars arrested by McKeesport police within a week. Two other men are accused of a series of burglaries in McKeesport and are under investigation by the State Police in connection with burglaries in Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

To Meet Leaders

The $1,111,043,000 General Appropriations Bill is in position for final action in the Senate, where GOP legislators restored only about four million dollars over the House version.

Meanwhile, the governor planned a meeting with 70 business and civic leaders at the Executive Mansion to enlist their support in his drive to get the $94,500,000 in budget cuts restored.

In a weekend statement he said the budget showdown "is now at hand", and said the funds restored by Republican senators were "pitifully inadequate . . . an irresponsible retreat certain to cost more in human misery, and eventually in dollars, than it can conceivably save."

He also warned that cuts in the budget on the state's Fair Employment Practices Commission would "practically destroy all possibilities" for enforcement or expanded services of the agency.

The House will reconvene at 11 a.m. edt today and the Senate at 2 p.m.

Wronged Man Takes Oath as New Minister

NEW YORK (UP)—A 46-year-old man, who spent 16 years in prison for a murder committed by his uncle, was ordained a Presbyterian minister Sunday.

Nearly 450 persons were on hand to see John Cacopardo of Hackensack, N.J., ordained in the Olivet Presbyterian Church on Staten Island. Among them was Kings County (Brooklyn, N.Y.) Judge Louis Goldstein who reversed Cacopardo's conviction in October, 1952. He was given a full pardon by Gov. Averell Harriman.

The new minister, who began his formal studies for the clergy while in prison and completed them last Wednesday, has been assigned to the East Side Presbyterian Church in Newark, N. J., on a temporary basis. Following a trial period, the congregation will vote on whether to keep Cacopardo as a regular pastor, a routine procedure, according to a church spokesman.

Cacopardo, married and the father of two children, was sent to prison in 1937 for the second degree murder of Miss Molly Storace, a 29-year-old Brooklyn divorcee. The chief witnesses against him were his uncle, Paul Petrillo, and a cousin. Subsequently, Petrillo was proven to have fatally shot Miss Storace. He was executed as the leader of murder-for-hire group that allegedly poisoned at least 21 persons.

Soviets Can't Give Us 'Equal Time'

THE APPEARANCE of Khrushchev, the Soviet leader, on an American television broadcast has started a discussion as to whether or not the U. S. Government should ask for "equal time" on Russian broadcasting facilities to allow President Eisenhower or somebody to "answer" Khrushchev.

This discussion seems to us to be a little pointless for the simple reason that there is no such thing as "equal time" in Russia. Television sets, which are commonplace in this country, are still a rarity in Russia. And even radio sets are relatively scarce. As for the newspaper press, such as it is, the Russian people know it is wholly controlled by the Communist regime, and they would have no means of knowing whether they were reading an honest version of what some American official had said.

That this is true is underscored by the fact that the Russian people were not given a complete version even of the Khrushchev interview. At least one of his comments was deleted entirely in the version which was published in the Soviet press.

Finally, in this country after such an event as the Khrushchev interview, there is a full and free discussion of what is said. And this can easily be as significant, so far as public information is concerned, as the original episode. But there can be no such discussion in Russia.

* * *

WHAT we mean to say is that there can be no such thing as "equal time" between a country which enjoys free speech and a free press and a country where every medium of expression is under government control and censorship. The whole environment is different.

We are not saying that some American should not make an effort to "answer" Khrushchev by any facilities the Soviet rulers might see fit to make available. Maybe in something like this, half a loaf is better than none.

But we should not delude ourselves into thinking that we would thus be engaging in a free exchange of ideas. An exchange of that kind will never be possible where one government acts as the eyes and ears and brains of its people, filtering everything they see and hear and think.

If the Soviets want to debate the issues between Communism and freedom, let them unshackle their press, their radio and television and allow their people to say freely what is on their minds. Then and only then can there be a free exchange of ideas.

But of course, when they do that, there will be no Communism, no dictatorship -- and no Khrushchev either.

A Downtown Need

THE SPORADIC fashion in which the Monessen police enforce parking and traffic regulations in the downtown district must be discouraging to those who are giving time and thought to the long-range improvement of this important area of the city.

Some of the physical problems of the area are deep-seated and therefore difficult to solve. The narrow streets, planned for traffic as it existed half a century ago; antiquated buildings, many of them owned by absentee landlords who lack pride both in their property and in the community; the shortage of off-street parking space -- these are the kind of civic woes which are going to require careful planning, hard work and lots of money to unravel. And we have to be patient while good solutions are worked out.

But consistent and diligent enforcement of the parking and traffic regulations -- this is something we have a right to expect right now. The taxpayers are paying [illegible] -- the payroll of the Police Department is now over $100,000 a year. And the enforcement of traffic regulations is nothing but a small part of the routine of municipal government.

[illegible] is perhaps the most troublesome spot. It has destroyed much of the [illegible] gained by the costly widening [illegible] Ave., for instance, and [illegible] ded in traffic knots at

[illegible] teasers motorists double-park [illegible] know they can get away with it. [illegible] enforcement policy would stop

[illegible] to be fairly diligent in [illegible] tickets for meter violations -- and [illegible] the Bell we hear reports of favoritism were supported the other day when [illegible] showed us a whole sheaf of [illegible] issued in a period extending [illegible] week, during which no effort has [illegible] to collect him. What gives here.

[illegible] Police Department is the [illegible] of the mayor, or the [illegible] City Council had a [illegible] of policy activity. For one [illegible] we should like to ask for an up-to-date [illegible] -- how many have been [illegible], how many are [illegible].

Merry-Go-Round—

Giants and Dodgers Sure to Move

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Despite all the polite palaver about the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants remaining at their home bases — maybe — it just ain't so. The contracts for their removal to Los Angeles and San Francisco are all signed, sealed, and delivered.

Mr. Pearson

The polite palaver is for the purpose of letting New York and Dodger fans down easy and not cutting down gate receipts during the remainder of this season.

The contract between Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers and the Los Angeles group was signed over a month ago and provides that the Dodgers will move west either for the season of 1958 or not later than 1959. Part of the contract calls for paid television.

Under the deal, the Dodgers will get reasonable rental on a stadium to be built in Los Angeles, and will save the $450,000 a year which New York City charges in admission taxes. O'Malley also makes $5,000,000 on his sale of Ebbetts Field in Brooklyn, on which will be built an apartment house.

Pauley in Deal

The Los Angeles group arranging the deal includes not only Mayor Norris Poulson, an ex-Congressman, but Ed Pauley, the oil man, a heavy backer of Harry Truman.

It was O'Malley who sold Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, on going to San Francisco. Without this it would have been difficult for the Dodgers to move to Los Angeles. But with both teams on the West Coast, eastern teams can move from Los Angeles to San Francisco with less cost for the transcontinental trip.

Mayor George Christopher and Louey Lurie of San Francisco were instrumental in tying up the Giants for San Francisco.

Matty Fox, well-known TV and motion-picture producer, has secured the television rights for both the Giants and the Dodgers. Fox is an owner of Skiatron, one of the new systems of paid television, and for the first time paid TV will broadcast an important sport to the rest of the nation from Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Scientists' Slow Burn

Government scientists at the National Institutes of Health are boiling at a crackdown of high officials against circulation of a petition to ban H-bomb tests. Scientists are especially incensed at an attempt to make it appear that their petition is Communist-inspired.

Probably the greatest group of government scientists in the USA resides at the National Health Institutes at Bethesda, Md., where they research into every disease known to man. Recently about a thousand of them signed a petition urging the banning of H-bomb tests. During the course of circulating the petition, it was seized by Dr. Francis Arnold, Director of Dental Research.

Afterward, Asst. Surgeon General James A. Shannon, head of all the Institutes, issued a directive permitting scientists to sign the petition as "private citizens, but "not as an official act." Since no one had signed as an official, this was considered unnecessary doubletalk and meddling with the right of free petition.

But, on top of this, Dr. Joseph E. Smadel, NHI associate director, has circulated a notice to laboratory chiefs and bureau chiefs warning scientists that they might be following the Communist party line.

Communist Line

His warning reads:

"You perhaps know that government agencies were advised by the Attorney General some weeks ago that a probable line of Communist propaganda this year would be to seek to exploit dissension over the question of the hazards of radioactive fallout.

"This knowledge makes it apparent that well-informed and well-intentioned people in a variety of ways may unwittingly be seen to further such a propaganda line . . ."

Scientists regard this as intimidation. What burns them up is that the Joint Atomic Energy Committee has been holding vitally important hearings regarding H-bomb tests showing that future generations may be set back for years by H-bomb radiation. Experts on this viewpoint, it's indicated by Dr. Smadel, Attorney General Brownell, and President Eisenhower at his latest press conference, may be expressing the Communist party line.

It's a Fact—

How About the Bomb Tests?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Official opinion, humanitarian opinion and public opinion are slowly and painfully, I think, coming nearer to a consensus on testing the big bombs.

The difficulty of reaching that consensus is not surprising.

Official opinion has an immediate responsibility for the national security and will rightly resolve doubts on the future potential danger of radioactive fallout on the side of perfecting the nuclear weapons with which to safeguard the nation.

Mr. Drummond

Humanitarian opinion, as illustrated by the appeals of Dr. Albert Schweitzer and others, takes a very long-range view of the possibility that continued H-bomb testing could damage the health of future generations and instinctively resolves doubts on the side of ending the tests regardless of how vital nuclear weapons may be as the shield against aggression.

Risks Minimized

Official opinion usually rests on the premise that improved nuclear weapons are necessary to defense and on distrust of Soviet promises. It cites the evidence that the risks from radioactivity "are less than the risks of everyday living."

Humanitarian opinion usually justifies its demand for the immediate, all-out ban on tests on the premise that hydrogen war is such a peril to all mankind that any step that might curtail the tools of such a war is desirable. It cites the view of some scientists that the present and future danger from radioactivity may be greater than some say.

I do not say that official opinion ignores humanitarian considerations or that all humanitarians ignore the military factor; only that each usually approaches its conclusion from a different direction.

Public opinion is caught in the middle.

Information Secret

Because the information is necessarily classified, no layman can say of his own knowledge that the time has come when the West would not be militarily hurt if testing was immediately stopped. Perhaps that point is near. It is important to recognize that, as far as nuclear testing in recent years by the United States is concerned, the scientists and military have learned some very important things.

We have been able to reduce the size of an explodable bomb many times.

We are able to produce cheaper bombs: not financially cheaper, but with a greatly reduced use of fissionable material.

We have made the employment of nuclear weapons far safer for tactical purposes far safer for our troops.

We have now produced, not a "clean," but a much "cleaner" hydrogen bomb which means greatly reduced radioactive fallout.

It's mighty easy to say that we now know all we need to know about nuclear weapons, that further testing is not important. The fact is that we did not know in advance that any of the foregoing developments would be forthcoming from the tests of recent years. We didn't know until the tests produced the necessary knowledge.

I am not saying that the time may not be near when the tests can be stopped or limited by an inspectable agreement between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union; only that they ought not to be stopped for the wrong reasons at the wrong time under unenforceable conditions.

Agreement Nearer

The reason I say that a consensus is beginning to be reached is that proposals put forth at the London disarmament talks show that both sides are getting nearer together.

They are talking about limiting, if not ending, the big bomb tests, which would remove most of the danger from radioactive fall-out.

They are talking about ceasing the production of fissionable material necessary for weapons, which would be far more important than limiting the tests themselves.

These goals can be reached only by thorough, visible, continuous, mutual inspection.

A nation which resists such inspection is only talking about nuclear disarmament; it is not acting.

The Woman's View—

Commercial Team

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Clothes which make the woman also help make the television commercial.

Just ask a genuine team of fashion experts who dress hundreds of models selling everything from hair rinses to refrigerators via the home screen.

"The clothes help create the mood the setting for the commercial," said the team of Maxwell-Gray. But they must never steal the show from the product.

Television is acquiring a real fashion sense, the two added. "Here is where the women can be taught, as well as sold." The two believe today's TV salesgirl is better dressed than a few years ago. The industry has lifted the level of taste along with the neckline.

"Modesty now prevails," said the duo. "Today's typical actress-model on TV is fresh-faced, well-groomed, natural looking...someone the woman at home, who does the buying, can identify herself with."

Breezy-Talking Pair

Maxwell - Gray is a 3-year-old firm composed of Muriel Maxwell, former model, former buyer, former fashion-magazine editor, and Jane Gray, former secretary, former buyer and former fashion magazine executive. They make a breezy-talking, hard-working combination.

"We started this business because I broke a leg," said Miss Maxwell. "Jane and I had known each other from our Vogue days. One day, while I was nursing a plaster cast, she dropped over to see me. We got to talking about starting our own business. Next day, Jane rented an office and had stationery printed."

The two call themselves free-lance fashion consultants and the outfitting of the gal in the TV commercial is just part of their operation.

"We'll take on just about any job if there's a fee," said Miss Gray. They plan fashion advertising, fashion shows, write beauty brochures, and even design. Their sketch for a summer uniform for feminine personnel of the Navy is one of two designs the top brass in Washington is considering adopting.

TV Best-Fees

But their best fees are in TV commercials. The partnership gets anywhere from $350 to $1,200 for each assignment. They don't even line up the model—the advertising agency does that.

"We beg, borrow and sometimes buy the clothes," said Miss Maxwell. Actually the pair has numerous resources in New York's garment industry, and when clothes are borrowed, it usually means a plug for the designer.

What Maxwell-Gray says doesn't always go in a commercial. "We just suggest to the producer, who has the final say," explained Jane. "On second thought, it's the sponsor who really has the last word.

"Not too long ago we were having hat trouble because of one sponsor. We'd lined up 42 hats from every top designer in New York. He didn't like any of 'em. Know what the model finally wore? A little $3.98 number we picked off a hat bar."

Quiz Program Offers Lesson on Tax Rates

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The third birthday of "The $64,000 Question" shall not pass without a reminder that thoughtful citizens have been getting a sugar-coated tax lesson from the popular TV program.

It is a lesson in what the income tax at current rates does to middle and upper bracket taxpayers. "The $64,000 Question" early got a lot of free and interesting advertising on its tax aspects in such unlikely places as the columns of the Wall Street Journal, the editorial pages of The Saturday Evening Post and the monthly letter of New York's First National City Bank.

Mr. Wilson

The First National had an emphatic point of view about income tax rates. It was that the personal rates were confiscatory to the point of discouraging individuals from taking risks to make more money.

Some Interesting Calculations

Back there when the TV program was just beginning, the bank distributed a letter which said, in part:

"The program has provided a vivid illustration of the way confiscatory personal income tax rates stack the cards against risk-taking ventures."

The bank calculated that a contestant who was single and had an income of $4,000 annually would have to win $448,711.11 to acquire $64,000 of actual, take-home prize money.

A single person with $4,000 of annual income would be assessed $15,400 in taxes if he reached the $32,000 winning level. This would reduce his actual prize money to $16,600. If this contestant took the last, long step, doubling his $32,000 into $64,000 the additional tax bite would be $23,292. The take-home prize would be increased by only $8,708.

"Thus," the bank concluded, "he is risking an assured $16,000 for a chance to win an additional $8,708."

The bank argued that the same tax situation which discourages contestants from reaching from $32,000 to $64,000 applies also to businessmen with venture capital who refuse to risk it by reason of tax limitations on their possible gain.

The Post's Comment

The Saturday Evening Post remarked that:

"What high taxation is doing to the free enterprise system is a subject which is about as interesting to the average man as a treatise on medieval metaphysics."

The Post contended however that the famous TV show would "cause millions of persons to give some thought to the effect of the tax laws on business."

About the time this editorial writer and others were guessing that the TV show would convince the voters that taxes were too high on the well-to-do, there was a rundown on the tax record of the past 20 years. The trend was the other way with taxes steadily zooming on the big and little fellow alike. The record showed that in the 20 years from 1936, the government's take from individual income taxpayers had multiplied 64 times.

Behind The News—

Future H-bomb Tests Now up to Russia

By CHARLES M. McCANN

It is now squarely up to Soviet Russia to decide whether there is to be an agreement to end the testing of nuclear weapons.

Russia has long been the leader in the demand that tests be ended and that nuclear weapons be outlawed.

This demand is becoming increasingly insistent in the United States and Great Britain, the only two countries besides Russia which have developed the H-bomb — or any other atomic weapon.

Mr. McCann

But President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have answered the demand by saying firmly that they will not promise to end tests until Russia agrees to an air-tight system of inspection to safeguard them against cheating.

President Eisenhower, in making his statement said the campaign in the United States "looks like almost an organized affair."

Scientists Start Campaign

In the United States, the campaign against the tests is being conducted largely by scientists who—in disagreement with other scientists—hold that radioactive fallout resulting from tests may doom children of future generations to dread disease.

In Great Britain, the demand is being made chiefly by the leftist Labor Party, the opposition to Macmillan's Conservatives, and by churchmen.

The demand hit the headlines in the United States last Monday when Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize winner of the California Institute of Technology, announced that 2,000 scientists had joined him in urging an international agreement to end tests because of radiation danger.

Pauling said his announcement grew out of a speech he made in St. Louis on May 15. He said more than 20 scientists had "collaborated" in preparing the appeal. They did so as individuals, he said, and no organization was involved.

Macmillan last Tuesday and Eisenhower last Wednesday gave their replies to those who demand that tests be ended.

Spoke With Force

They both said it was their duty to see that their countries were safeguarded against attack. Eisenhower spoke with special force. He said the United States could not agree to ban tests "unless we also had a system which we knew would . . . forever bar the use of . . . these weapons in war."

As regards Eisenhower's voicing of a suspicion that anti-test appeals looked like an organized affair, there has been no suggestion that any organization is involved in the Anglo-American campaign.

It does happen, by coincidence, that the official Ceteka News agency of Communist Czechoslovakia broadcast to the world on May 30 an 8,000-word announcement that it was launching "a survey of world-wide reaction to nuclear weapons tests." The announcement was addressed to "all directors and editors in chief of news agencies and all the press." The object was to emphasize fall-out danger.

It happens also that last Friday the news came from Moscow that "leading Americans" had been asked for statements on nuclear weapons tests. The statements will be included in a big staged Moscow radio broadcast later this month.

But Eisenhower and Macmillan have taken their stand. If tests are to be banned, it is up to Russia to make a ban possible.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Sickles, of Webster and the late Walter D. Sickles. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Keith Sr., of Belle Vernon R. D. 3.

The Rev. John W. Shell officiated at the nuptial rites.

The bride's brother, Walter L. Sickles, gave her in marriage and she was attired in a white full length gown of Chantilly lace and net styled with a fitted bodice. The full skirt was styled with pointed inserts of lace. She wore a matching headpiece to hold her veil and carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and purple delphinium.

Bridal Party

Mrs. Mary Sonafelt, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a street length gown of blue nylon and chiffon with a matching picture hat and carried a basket type arrangement of blue and white carnations.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Emma Lou Rowley, who wore a street length gown of orchid nylon and chiffon with a matching picture hat. Orchid and white carnations in a basket arrangement were her flowers.

Robert Keith, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the ushers were William Rowley and Donald Williams.

A poudre blue dress was chosen by the mother of the bride for her attire. She wore white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom selected a dark blue dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception in the church social rooms supplemented the ceremony and a wedding cake centered the bridal table. When the couple left later for a wedding trip the bride was wearing a beige ensemble with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith will reside at 444 Oneida St. The new Mrs. Keith is a Rostraver High School graduate and is now attending California State Teachers College. Mr. Keith was graduated from Rostraver High School and California State Teachers College and is a teacher in Monessen Junior High School.

Surprise Party Honors Former Local Pastor

Friends in Monessen have received word of the surprise party honoring the Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Bennett, of Mason City, Ill. on the occasion of the former's retirement from the ministry.

The Bennetts lived here for 10 years, while the Rev. Mr. Bennett was minister at the First Christian Church. He was remembered on his retirement with a telegram from members of the local church.

A feature of the party which was held by the First Christian Church congregation of Mason City was a "This Is Your Life" program. Ill health was the reason for the Rev. Mr. Bennett's resignation after six years at his last charge.

The narrator, Mrs. Ruth Donavan began her story with April 28, 1889 the date of the birth of Olis Edward Bennett at North River Mills, W. Va. Three of the four Bennett children were present, Arthur, who is a pastor at Pleasant Hill, Mo., Marion Wolfe, a daughter of River Falls, Wis., and Mrs. Arlene Dodson, of Mason City. There were seven grandchildren present. A son, Ralph, who is serving a pastorate at Roanoke, Va. could not attend, but sent a tape recording. The Rev. Bennett received a phone call from his mother from Indianapolis and his sister, Fanny, was present. Many messages were received by the couple.

Pictures taken of the Bennetts in their youth were shown.

The Bennetts were presented with a television set before the luncheon was served. They will move to their own home on North Green St., Mason City.

Christian Women's Group Holds Unique Party Here

The members of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church held a party on Friday evening with a "southeast Asia" theme. An invitation was extended to officers from other valley Christian Churches and from women's groups of local churches to attend. At some time during the past year all have used the theme for their study.

The guests were seated under a simulated "thatched roof" and the tables were decorated with the flags of the Southeast Asia area. At one end of the table there was a miniature thatched hut and at the other end there was a cart drawn by miniature Carabao. Place cards, napkins and other appointments were decorated with pictures of the products from these countries. These were also used in a "get acquainted" game.

Mrs. W. O. Beery, president, extended the welcome and Nancy Bow sang "Bless This House".

Guest speaker was Mrs. Arthur Dubinsky, who made her home in the Philippines, while her husband was stationed there with the U. S. Air Force. She told of the people and their customs and displayed some of the articles she brought from that country.

Mrs. Thomas Hawkins sang "I See God" and Mrs. Vernon Bowers spoke on the subject "We Would See People".

Luncheon was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Charles Llewellyn III, and the food was also in keeping with the study area.

How Much Will Worrell Get?

Now that Centerville High's Red Worrell has definitely (maybe!) decided to further his education at North Carolina University, the big guessing game is just how much the Tarheels offered him. Of course, no one can say for certain but Coach Jim Tatum must be making it worth Worrell's while. Only a few days ago, the youngster had "definitely" decided on West Virginia after a Mountie has reportedly offered to support Red's family. At Chapel Hill, Worrell will reportedly live in an apartment with his wife and daughter. Who will pick up the tab? You answer that one.

Race Boat Driver Proves His Courage

By OSCAR FRALEY

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (UP)—A chubby little man who needed four years to conquer his fears proved his class and his courage to the motorboat world today.

"I was so scared one time that I quit for four years," 33-year-old Bob Jacobson of Flint, Mich., admitted as he hauled himself out of his sleek craft named "Jumpin' Jake" after himself. "I took a spill at Saginaw and the propellers of the other boats shredded my life jacket."

But "Jake" proved he has conquered his fears Sunday as he won the fourth annual Mennon 1,000 island 100 - mile international outboard marathon on the bright blue waters of the St. Lawrence River.

He did it in thrilling fashion, jumping out in front of the record number of 130 starters as the gun went off and holding the lead all the way through the bright sunshine which bathed the island-dotted waterway.

Only 5-feet-6 and 145 pounds, the tiny man with the little moustache also showed he had the endurance of a champion as he knelt on his knees throughout that 1 hour and 51 minute grind over the wind-riffled waters.

"I wear adhesive tape patches over my knees and then put basketball kneepads over that," he grinned, hoisting one watersoaked pantleg. "They get a bit sore but you have to expect that."

Jacobson has been racing "steady" for four years and finished second in this Kentucky Derby of outboard competition last year.

"I had to win this one," he said, looking back into the past. "Sure, I've won some others, but this was the big one."

First place in the CU class, or second division of the race, went to Jim Burnham, a switchman on the Nickel Plate Railroad. A former paratrooper in the Polish army, he lives in Conneaut, Ohio.

Musial Set to Top Suhr's Mark

NEW YORK (UP)—Stan "The Man" Musial can equal the National League's "iron man" record Tuesday night when the Cardinals meet the Phillies in Philadelphia.

By playing in both Sunday's games against the Giants, Musial ran his streak of consecutive games to 821, only one short of the league record of 822 games held by Gus Suhr, former Pittsburgh first baseman.

Smith Wins in Ladies PGA

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Wiffi Smith, 20-year-old St. Clair, Mich., freshman pro, carried a three-stroke lead and a desire to win the "big one" into today's final round of the Ladies' PGA championship at Churchill Valley Country Club.

The winsome Miss Smith refused to be disgusted Sunday when she fired a double-bogey six on the 17th hole as her drive struck a tree branch and nearly bounded into a creek. She finished the third round with a 75 and a 214 total.

Pressing the Michigan lass at 217 were the veteran Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., and defending LPGA titlist Marlene Bauer Hagge, Dallas, Tex. Miss Suggs, who went into Sunday's round trailing by four strokes, carded a 74 and Mrs. Hagge came home with a 73.

Deadlocked in fourth position with 219s were Alice Bauer, Palos Park, Ill., and Joyce Ziske, Waterford, Wis. Miss Bauer shot a third-round 74 and Miss Ziske posted a 75.

Four Bunched

Four of the 26 players in the tourney were bunched at 221. They were Jackie Pung, San Francisco; Bonnie Randolph, Naples Beach, Fla.; Beverly Hanson, Indio, Calif., and Marilyn Smith, Wichita, Kan.

Miss Randolph carded the only sub-par round of the afternoon with a one-under 69 as the remainder of the field had difficulty with the stiff winds that blew all afternoon.

In a sidelight of the LPGA, U.S. Women's Open champion Kathy Cornelius posted a 73 as the target for the country's lady golfers in the national "I Beat the Champion" day. Spotted course or individual handicaps, those who better Mrs. Cornelius' score will be awarded badges emblematic of their success.

Two Over Par

Miss Smith was two over men's par at the end of 16 when she ran into trouble. She gambled trying to hook a shot around a tree but her ball struck a branch and bounced to the edge of a nearby creek. Although the hole cost her the double-bogey, it failed to crack her ice-water calm and she came back strong to par the final hole.

In a companion "tournament of champions" event, Maureen Riley, New Castle, Pa., successfully defended her title in a tourney originally set for 72 holes but shortened by 18 as a result of Saturday's rain-out of all activity. She finished with a 236.

Lighthouse United will battle St. Louis for the national title.

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Herb Score planned to return to Cleveland today for another examination of his right eye, which he injured last month while pitching against the New York Yankees.

Midget League to Buy New Equipment

Monessen's Midget Football League last night authorized the purchase of almost $1,000 worth of new equipment.

"After six seasons, our original equipment is beginning to wear," reported Bucky Lutes, of the purchasing committee. "It will be necessary now to begin replacing equipment on a large scale."

Two teams — Lincoln and Jefferson — will get new pants. The other two clubs — Frank-Lin and Vocational — will get theirs next season.

More Headgear

The League also approved the purchase of 48 head gears and 40 pairs of shoes.

With the new equipment, Lutes said the MFL will be providing the boys with complete uniform protection.

In another major item of business, the league authorized the building committee to proceed with work on the student concession stand at Memorial Stadium.

Alex Kachmarik, chairman of that committee, said the stand on the adult side is about completed, except for fixtures and furnishings. He pointed out that material cost exceeded "slightly" original estimates.

Fund Drive

The recent building fund drive produced almost $1700. However practically all of that money will be used for material in the adult concession stands.

The League plans to pay for the student stand out of funds from its general treasury.

The league also tentatively set August 19 as the starting date for pre-season drills.

The winner of the tourney is regarded as the champion ladies team of the Pittsburgh district.

Cro-Ams to Meet PNA In Softball

The first-place Cro-Ams will meet PNA tonight in City Softball League action.

The Cro-Ams have a 3-1 record at the moment. They are a half game in front of Italian Hall and the Myfords.

However a setback tonight will tumble the Cro-Ams way down to a three way tie for third.

As a matter of fact, the City League race is so tight this season that none of the contenders can afford to go into any sort of a losing streak.

PNA is currently fifth in the standings with a 2-2 record. A win, though, will boost them all the way up to third.

Kuvinka Forfeits Win by Perry To West Newton

Mon Valley League Commissioner George Kuvinka today ordered Perryopolis to forfeit its 2-0 win over West Newton last Friday.

Kuvinka took the action when it was learned that Perry had used an "ineligible" player in that game.

At the same time, Kuvinka suspended Americo Martinez for the remainder of the season.

Martinez, signed to a Fayette City contract, played for Perry in the win over West Newton. According to Perryopolis officials, they were unaware of the fact that he had previously signed with FC.

As a result of the forfeit, West Newton picked up its first win of the season.

Kuvinka also hinted that he's ready to fine Valley League teams for another reported infraction.

"It has come to our attention that certain home teams are not turning over their field at ten minutes to game time so that the visiting team might warm up," Kuvinka said. "All such violations will be dealt with firmly," he promised.

Seven Ozarks Errors Help in Mon Valley League Baseball Tilt

BULLETIN

Today'e Monessen-Charleroi baseball game has been shifted to Ninth Street Park to avoid conflict with an activity at the Charleroi Stadium.

Monessen's "pitcherless" Ozarks will travel to Charleroi tonight for a Mon Valley League assignment.

And Manager Pappy Johnson may wind up throwing himself. That's how desperate the Ozark mound plight is at the moment.

Yesterday, the Ozarks lost at Perryopolis, 7-1. Johnson had to use two of his hurlers in that contest — John Stetsko and Myron Sepitko.

Actually Stetsko pitched a pretty good game. It wasn't until the final innings that Perry finally got to him and Sepitko had to come on.

Unhappily the Ozarks never did get to Perry starter Bill Hancharik. He fanned nine batters and stifled Monessen on three hits.

The only Monessen run came in the final inning on a walk, passed ball and single by Mike Young.

Open Scoring

It wasn't until the fourth frame that Perry scored. Barry Oldham reached second on an error, then tallied on another miscue.

In the sixth, Tommy Havadich poked out the only extra base hit of the day, a double. Oldham singled him home.

In the seventh, an error plus successive singles by Jim Davis, Hern Sams and Bill Thomas produced two runs.

Then in the eighth, Perry earned three insurance tallies. Don Mains singled and Bub Wilkie made first on an error. Hancharik singled in Mains. Caparella singled in another run and a sacrifice brought home a third.

Seven Ozark errors helped the Perry cause considerably.

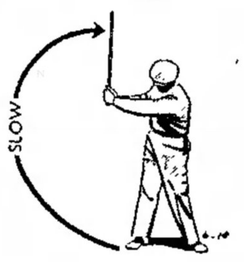
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Jerky Swing

Golf is naturally the kind of game that makes a player anxious to hit the ball and see it head for the pin. And if the shot coming up is a tough one, the anxiety is even greater.

So we see a lot of golfers speeding up their swings because they can't wait to see the result. But isn't it better to wait another second or so and see a good result? Sure it is.

The best way to overcome a "too-fast" backswing is to picture the swing action in your mind before you address the ball. Draw yourself a mental picture of a smooth, unhurried backswing. Then swing to fit the picture.

If you practice this mental-picture business long enough, it becomes a habit.

Palmer Wins in Extra Holes in Akron Tourney

By JOHN CARROLL

AKRON, Ohio (UP) — Arnold Palmer gave Doug Ford the nod as "the man to watch in the National Open" this week after beating Ford on the sixth hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday to win the Rubber City Open golf tournament.

Ford shot a 65 to catch Palmer at 272 after 72 holes and sent the $22,000 tourney into extra holes.

However, Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., sank a 20-yard chip shot for a birdie-three on the sixth to take the title. Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., was third with 275, after tieing for the lead on the second and third days, and Bill Trombley, a Dallas club pro on the circuit for nine months, ranked fourth with 278.

"Ford is driving and putting well," Palmer said. "I have to pick him as the man to watch in the Open."

Putting 'Weak'

As for himself, Palmer thought his own putting "weak," and planned to spend the next three days at Toledo practicing on the greens before the National Open gets underway Thursday.

Ironically, it was a bad putt by Ford on the second extra hole that saved Palmer. Ford needed a 2½-foot putt for a birdie four, but misjudged a dip in the green and the ball rimmed the cup.

The two finalists halved the next three holes and Palmer went over the 460-yard sixth with his second shot. Ford was on the green in three, 30-feet from the pin.

With his ball lying on the smooth grass just off the green, Palmer elected to chip with a seven iron rather than putt. The ball rose slightly, bounced and rolled into the cup.

State Amateur Golf Underway

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Nearly 300 Western Pennsylvania golfers tee off today in a battle for berths in the state amateur golf tournament.

The field for the amateur will be 64 players but the allotment for the eastern, western and central sections will not be determined until the East and Central hold their qualifiers in two weeks.

Places in the amateur itself are based upon the number of entries at each section minus the number of former champions who enter. On basis of this it is estimated that Western Pennsylvania would have at least 32 entries.

Today's 36-hole qualifier will be played over the 71-par Field Club.

Bucs Beat Braves, 5-3, After 2-1 Loss

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The league-leading Cincinnati Redlegs open a three-game series tonight against the seventh-place Pittsburgh Pirates whose pitchers behave like first division performers.

Ronnie Kline had a three-hitter but needed help from Roy Face in the ninth inning of the Sunday nightcap to defeat the Braves 5-3. The Braves registered only five hits from Bob Friend in the opener but edged a 2-1 triumph on an 11th-inning single by Johnny Logan who scored pinch-runner Felix Mantilla.

Friend and Kline each recorded six strikeouts, a feat matched by Juan Fizarro, the loser in the nightcap. The Pirates supported Friend with a run in the first inning on Bill Virdon's single, Dee Fondy's walk and Frank Thomas' double.

Aaron Homers

Hank Aaron got a seventh inning homer to tie the count and the game went into extra innings. The Braves set the stage for the victory with Frank Torre, batting for winner Bob Trowbridge, and notching a single. He took second on an error by Roberto Clemente and was replaced as a runner by Mantilla, who came around on Logan's only hit in five trips to the plate.

Kline had a no-hitter until Aaron came to bat with one out in the seventh. He poled his 15th homer and the Braves were behind 5-1 until the ninth when they loaded the bases with none out and Face replaced Kline.

Sacrifice Fly

Joe Adcock, the first batter against Face, hit a sacrifice fly to score Logan who had a lead-off walk. Bobby Thomson singled to bring in Ed Mathews who had singled for the fourth and last hit for the Braves.

The Pirates had opened with a run in the first inning fashioned a double by Gene Baker and Dee Fondy's single. Bill Mazeroski singled in the third, Baker sacrificed and Thomas singled for a 2-0 lead.

The Pirates scored two more runs in the seventh with Dick Rand's single, Mazeroski's single, Baker's second sacrifice and Fondy's second single. Gene Conley allowed another Pirate run in the eighth when yielded singles to Gene Freese, Bill Virdon and Rand.

Balog to Rest During '57 Season

Pete Balog, a Monessen High graduate who formerly coached football at both Vernon and Rostraver, has asked for a year's leave at Ramsay High to recover from a serious ailment.

Balog, who took over the Ramsay helm in 1949, was stricken shortly after the 1956 football season. He was hospitalized until recently.

Balog's 1951 Ramsay footballers were beaten in the Class A championship game. In 1955 his Bobcats were unbeaten but were eliminated through a 6-6 tie with Scottdale.

While Pete is reported to be well on his way to recovery, his physicians felt it advisable for him to quit the coaching ranks, at least for one season.

Penn State Romps On in NCAA Baseball Play

OMAHA, Neb (UP) — Penn State and California shared the spotlight today as the NCAA college World Series moved into the third round at Municipal Stadium.

Undefeated Penn State and the seasoned Californians, the only teams unbeaten so far in the double elimination tourney, will meet tonight.

Connecticut and Iowa State, both with 1-1 records in tournament play, meet this afternoon, and Notre Dame, 1-1, is slated to meet Texas, 1-1, this evening.

Penn State, which had won 21 straight games going into tonight's play, defeated Texas, 4-1, in the second round Sunday. California routed Iowa State, 8-2; Notre Dame whipped Colorado State, 23-2, and Connecticut defeated Florida State 5-3.

In first round play Saturday, Texas defeated Connecticut, 3-0; Penn State shut out Florida State, 7-0; California blanked Colorado State 4-0, and Iowa State defeated Notre Dame, 13-8, in 10 innings.

Ed Drapcho pitched another three-hitter Saturday in the first-round when Penn State defeated Florida State, 7-0.

State took advantage of two Texas errors in Sunday's contest to score three unearned runs in the fourth inning before capitalizing on two additional miscues for a final tally in the eighth.

The three-run fourth began with two out and a runner on first. Ron Rainey grounded to Texas third baseman Woody Woodman. The ball bounced off Woodman's leg and rolled to the dugout. The Lions then added a single, Emery's double, another single and Texas made a second error before the inning was over.

Drapcho was in complete command as he rang up his 11th victory against no defeats in Saturday's shutout, despite a shaky first inning.

Not one Florida State player advanced past first base after the first when a combination of an error, a wild pitch and a walk saw two Seminole reach second.

Cincy Sweeps Twin Bill from Brooklyn to Regain NL Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Only a baseball glutton could ask for more excitement than there was in the stormiest Sunday of the major league season.

No matter what happens to be your dish of tea, it was all there on the menu Sunday.

For those who like home runs, Don Hoak of Cincinnati hit one in each game to help the Redlegs sweep a double - header from Brooklyn, 3-1 and 3-0, and recapture the National League lead.

For those who like to see the "little fella" knock off the "big guy," there was the Orioles two victories over the first-place White Sox, 7-5, 5-0.

And for those who prefer their baseball spiced with some fisticuffs, there were plenty at Detroit as the Yankees defeated the Tigers, 5-4, in a game that almost resulted in a riot.

Babe Herman Steal

There was even a "Babe Herman" type steal of second with the bases full in the Detroit-New York game and what's more, it helped the Yanks win.

Elsewhere on the big league scene, the Cardinals climbed to within 3½ games of first place by defeating the Giants twice, 2-1, and 10-7; Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh in the first game, 2-1, in 11 innings, but the Pirates won the nightcap, 5-3, and the Cubs topped the Phillies, 7-3, in the opener, while the second game was called in the 10th with the score 4-4.

In the American League, the Red Sox took both ends of a double-header from the Athletics, 8-4 and 9-5, while Cleveland split with Washington, the Indians taking the opener, 7-2, and the Senators the second game, 7-6.

One-Man Show

Hoak put on a one-man show in helping the Redlegs move ahead of the pack in the N.L. race again by a game and a half. His two-run homer in the seventh inning of the opener off Don Drysdale snapped a 1-1 tie, and he and George Crowe connected for homers in the second game off Ed Roebuck, making the first start of his three-year major league career after 96 relief appearances. Brooks Lawrence was the winner in the opener and Hal Jeffcoat in the nightcap.

The White Sox' American League lead was shaved to 4½ games by their two losses to the Orioles. Home runs by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman paced Baltimore to its first game victory as reliever George Zuverink posted his sixth triumph. Billy O'Dell struck out 11 and held Chicago to six hits in the finale.

Injuries Mar Nightcap

Two injuries marred the nightcap. George Kell suffered a possible skull fracture when struck by one of Dick Donovan's pitches and Francona broke his left index finger while trying to field a ground ball.

The Yankees won their game after trailing 4-0. With the score tied 4-4 in the eighth and the bases full, Hank Bauer tried to steal second. By the time the Tigers got through throwing the ball around, Bill Skowron scored the deciding run from third. Frank Bolling, Charley Maxwell and Earl Torgeson homered for the Tigers while Skowron and Bauer homered for the Yanks.

Members of both teams came charging onto the field in the third inning when Ray Boone and Yankee starter Tom Sturdivant engaged in a fist fight. Boone claimed Sturdivant had thrown at his head. Both were ejected from the game and the victory went to reliever Bob Grim.

Mintz, Colorful Manager, to Be Buried Today

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Jake Mintz, the colorful excitable manager of former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, will be buried in Beth Shalom Cemetery here today.

Mintz, 57, died last Saturday at Montefiore Hospital following two heart attacks.

Mintz, who came to his country from Russia as a boy, fought under the name of Fighting Jack O'Boyle and claimed the West Virginia flyweight championship.

He began promoting fights in the Pittsburgh area in the mid 30's and reached his high point when Charles decisioned Jersey Joe Walcott for the heavyweight title in 1949. Mintz gained the spotlight after the bout when he fainted in the ring.

Afterwards he said, "If I'da known I would get so much publicity, I'da stayed fainted longer." Mintz claimed he was "in a transom" when he passed out.

Mintz' assassination of grammar was his trademark.

When introducing himself he always said, "My name is Mintz. Just like in the pie."

Morning Star Grange Holds Memorial Service on Friday

A memorial service was held by the Morning Star Grange at its meeting Friday evening in the Grange Hall, near Grindstone.

The service is held annually in memory of deceased Grange members with special tribute paid to those who died during the past year.

For the occasion, each station was decorated with flowers in the color symbolic of that station. The altar served as the focal point of the service arranged by Mrs. Emma K. Wilkey, who also participated in the service.

Beginning at 9 p. m. the service opened with a hymn by the Grange Youth Choir. A memorial poem was read by Olive Meese and the call to remembrance was by Mrs. Wilkey. William Gaskill paid tribute to George Boyd, a long time member of the organization who died late in 1956. Following Gaskill's review of Boyd's life, an arrangement of red roses were placed on the altar. Tarn Sphar then paid tribute to Paul Klaus who also died during the year. He also placed a flower arrangement on the altar.

Flora then placed an arrangement of mixed flowers in the center of the altar in memory of all departed Grange members. Two other hymns were sung by the Youth Choir and the memorial address was given by the Rev. William Morris, pastor of the Little Redstone Methodist Church. In closing Mrs. Wilkie read a poem. The benediction was given by the Rev. Mr. Morris.

A social hour followed the service. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Premoshis and Mrs. Asa Stimmel were in charge. The next meeting of the Grange will be held to confer the first and second degrees, with the degree team from Curfew Grange in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Freshwater returned home last week following a tour of Virginia with the highlight of the trip being a complete tour of Williamsburg.

He stated that this country with its opportunities should take every chance to be a model for other countries in its efforts to create a peaceful and friendly world.

The meeting opened with invocation by the Rev. Mr. Daniel and group singing led by Jack Stockton. Leah Stathers was at the piano. During a brief business session conducted by the president, Richard Richardson, the secretary, Jasper Hare, reported that the broom sale and calendar project was successfu. Bomb Outrage Kills 10; More Than 80 Hurt

ALGIERS (UP) — A new bomb outrage that killed 10 persons and injured more than 80 others brought French - Moslem tension to a new danger point today.

French authorities took stern precautions to protect the Moslem population against French reprisals for the double bombing of La Corniche Casino outside Algiers Sunday night.

The rebellion has returned violently to Algiers itself after four months of comparative calm. Only last Tuesday rebels planted three bombs at crowded bus stops in downtown Algiers, killing 10 persons and wounding 85.

The attacks have marked a shift in nationalist tactics, designed to terrorize both the European and the Moslem population. It began a week ago last Friday with the massacre of Melouza in which 303 pro - French Moslems were butchered by the National Liberation Front.

GOP Moves in South

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Republican Party embarked today on what it called, "Operation Dixie," a campaign to enlarge its toehold in the Democratic South.

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn formally announced the appointment of I. Lee Potter, Virginia state Republican chairman, as Southern director for the GOP National Committee.

Potter, 47, a resident of Arlington, Va., has worked as patronage director for the national committee. He will continue to be based in Washington.

President Eisenhower scheduled a meeting today with Alcorn and Potter.

It was reported during last week's National Republican strategy conference that Potter's selection for the Southern assignment had been approved by the party's executive committee.

The GOP has eyed the Democratic South with growing interest since President Eisenhower carried four Southern states in 1952 and five in 1956.

Alcorn said the Republican Party had made "giant strides" in the South in recent presidential and congressional elections. He termed Potter well qualified to direct the organizing activity to win "substantial Republican gains in congressional, state and local elections throughout the South."

A lifelong Republican, Potter was born at Tower City, Pa., and has lived in Washington and Arlington. He has been in the real estate business in northern Virginia since 1935 and is a former director of the Washington Association of Home Builders.

No Flu Epidemic Is Expected Here

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Public Health Service spokesman said today there is no danger of a nationwide flu epidemic spreading to this country from the Orient. He said U.S. drug firms are convinced they can make a vaccine for the new "Oriental flu" bug in 2-3 months.

The Public Health Service scheduled a closed-door meeting today with its new advisory committee on influenza, composed of representatives of state and territorial health officers and medical groups.

A spokesman said the chief aim of the meeting was to discuss plans for development, production and distribution of the new flu vaccine.

While the spokesman did not say so, it was assumed one question discussed would be whether the federal government should subsidize development of the new vaccine as it did development of Salk polio vaccine.

No Outbreak Yet

The spokesman said there is as yet no "outbreak" of the new flu virus in this country "as far as we know." He said there may be "isolated cases" but the only information received by the Public Health Service is press reports from the West Coast.

The spokesman said all necessary precautionary steps have been taken in this country except for development of a vaccine.

Health officers and laboratories throughout the country have been given samples of the new virus, isolated by the Public Health Service here, to check against samples taken from flu victims arriving from the Orient.

Health Service Confident

Arrivals from the Pacific will have their names and addresses for the next week to 10 days taken. If they have a respiratory infection during that period, and it spreads to others, local health officers will report the facts. A U.S. Public Health Service epidemic team will be rushed to the spot.

Antibiotics will quickly be administered to infected persons to kill "hitchhiking" germs such as pneumonia that provide the real danger accompanying the new flu virus.

The spokesman said the Public Health Service is "confident" any outbreak of flu in this country can thus be effectively localized.

Damage Suit Is Filed for Crash On Cemetery Hill

A suit to recover more than $5,000 on two counts for injuries alleged to have been received in an auto accident has been filed in the Washington County Courts by a New Eagle couple against a Greensburg man.

Thomas Nakutis, 17, was a passenger in a car, driven by Michael J. Petrello, of Greensburg, R. D. 6. The suit was filed by Nakutis' parents, George J. and Catherine Nakutis, of Dry Run Road, New Eagle.

The alleged accident occured about 1:15 a. m., Nov. 11, 1956, on the section of Route 88 known as Cemetery Hill Road, one-mile north of the Monongahela city limits.

Nakutis claims the auto, driven by Petrello, went out of control and crashed into a concrete wall.

Plane Crashes Into Patio; Four Persons Killed

PACOIMA, Calif. (UP)—A light plane crashed into the patio of a house Sunday night, killing all four persons aboard and narrowly missing eight others having dinner less than ten feet away.

Hundreds of residents, their nerves shaken by a series of air crashes in the San Fernando Valley, saw the Piper Tri - Pacer plunge out of the clouds and head for the heavily populated area. Many persons thought the crippled plane was going to hit their homes and they ran in terror.

However, the eight persons, including three children, having dinner at the Barry Worth home had no warning. The plane ripped through the patio roof and disintegrated as it hit the ground.

Worth, his wife, Mary, their children and three Sunday dinner guests escaped injury. The bodies of the victims were badly mangled and it took authorities more than an hour to establish identities.

The victims, all from Chico, Calif., had rented the plane in the afternoon from Dennis Air Service in the northern California city. They were identified as Harry Harris Smith, 42, Terrance P. Lockhart, 33, Robert F. Patterson, 52, and Owen S. Wallis, 33.

Strong Upturn in Steel Forecast To Beat Expected Price Increase

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — Steel production jumped another two points to 88 per cent of rated capacity last week and current record rates of consumption plus increased demand will soon spark a strong resurgence in the industry, Steel Magazine said today.

For the second consecutive week, steel ingot output moved upward from the year's low mark of 84 per cent of rated capacity, the publication noted. Total yield for the week ending June 9 amounted to an estimated 2,252,351 net tons.

The metalworking weekly said the rise stems principally from early buying to beat a contemplated midyear price increase. Other reasons given were consumers' completion of inventory reductions and "improved business" at numerous metalworking plants.

Steel Usage Records

Records in steel usage were set during the first four months of this year, according to the Federal Reserve Board's index of metal fabrication. First quarter usage was reported at 179 per cent of the total for base period from 1947 to 1949.

In the previous record production year, 1955, usage averaged only 157.5 per cent. In 1956, usage hit an all-time high of 169 percent over the base period.

The scrap market, barometer for the industry, continued to show signs that production would strengthen, Steel said.

For the second consecutive week, steel ingot output moved upward from the year's low mark of 84 per cent of rated capacity, the publication noted. Total yield for the week ending June 9 amounted to an estimated 2,252,351 net tons.

For the sixth consecutive week, Steel's publication price composite on steelmaking scrap rose from the year's low point of $42.50 per gross ton. In the week ended June 5, it increased $5.33 to a price of $52.33.

Come Into Market

"If the metal fabricating industry continues its record pace," the magazine commented. "It will soon deplete its inventories and have to come into the market for steel."

Gear manufacturers were reported leading in orders filled with expectation of "more of the same" during the second half year.

Suppliers to steel mills, the aircraft industry and missile development programs reportedly also bright even in the lagging automobile industry, with tool and die makers expecting to equal last year's shipments of more than 1 million dollars.

Steel prices remained firm in the week ended June 5. The publication's finished steel base price index held at $140.24 per net ton, it's steady point since May 1.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Fedor, who died two years ago today, June 10, 1955.
She is gone but not forgotten
Time passes dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of her are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed by Sons, daughter, and Grandchildren

Knowland Sends His Challenge To Soviet Boss

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland has challenged Soviet Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev to pull Soviet troops out of Hungary in exchange for the neutralization of Norway.

He disclosed Sunday on the CBS television program, "Face the Nation," he had made the proposal in a letter to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

He also declared that Russia's word could not be trusted on any disarmament inspection plan. He said failure to have a "brass-bound" agreement would "jeopardize the security of this nation and the free world."

Speaking from the same television platform Khrushchev had a week earlier, Knowland threw back at the Soviet leader his assertion that the puppet Hungarian regime of Premier Janos Kadar would "flourish for ages to come" even without the backing of Russian arms.

The California Republican predicted the Kadar government "would not last a week" if the Russians withdrew.

Khrushchev proposed in an unprecedented televised interview that Soviet forces would withdraw from East Germany, Poland and Hungary if the United States would do likewise with its troops in West Germany and France.

Knowland proposed his plan as a test of sincerity of Russian leaders and to "put them on the spot."

Pickles Are Saved

MILWAUKEE, Wis (UP)—A novel plea got Mrs. Margaret Renmeister, 49, out of a pickle Saturday. A judge, after finding Mrs. Renmeister guilty of drunkenness, waived a jail sentence and imposed a $10 fine when she said that a barrel of pickles soaking at home would spoil if she went to jail.

Quinoa, a grain found in the Andes, is used by Peruvian Indians as a feed, a food and a beverage.

Woman Prefers to Keep Shepherd Dog

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—A 35-year-old woman secretary planned today to leave town in order to remain with her German shepherd dog which has been banished from Hillsborough County for allegedly biting five children.

The dog, named Ranger, was granted a reprieve from execution by City Court Judge Bob Johnson, provided Mrs. Martha Allen removes the animal from the county. Mrs. Allen, who must stand trial for failing to keep the dog confined, said she will move to St. Petersburg, in Pinellas County—with Ranger.

Just Melon Thief

BRAWLEY, Calif. (UP)—Farmer W. I. Fifield said he didn't mind a helicopter landing in his watermelon patch Saturday. He thought it was too much, though, when the pilot hopped out, grabbed three melons, jumped back in the 'copter and took off.

Mystery Playhouse to Replace Spike Jones

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — The channel swim:

When the Spike Jones show folds on June 25, something called "Playhouse of Mystery" will drop into its CBS-TV spot. Next fall. "Small World," starring Eric Sevareid, is expected to move into the Wednesday night period.

Jayne Meadows (Mrs. Steve Allen) is expecting. Mike Wallace will interview an interviewer on his June 25 ABC-TV show — Mary Margaret McBride.

A toothpaste sponsor offered comic Dick Shawn a Friday night half hour show of his own on NBC-TV, but Shawn turned it down. ABC-TV has decided to slot another saddle soap opera, "Colt .45," into its Friday night sked.

Paar Angling Out

Jack Paar, expected to take over the revamped "Tonight" show on NBC-TV next month, angles out of his ABC radio show on June 28. NBC-TV will alternate Ward Bond and Robert Horton as stars of its new one-hour western, "Wagon Train."

The producers of "The $64,000 Question" are trying to sign Ed Sullivan, Phil Silvers and Danny Thomas as emcees for the show when Hal March takes a six-week breather this summer. CBS-TV will kick off its new Jimmy Dean country music show on Saturday evening, June 29.

New Role For Peggy Lee

Singer Peggy Lee will star in the last three Jackie Gleason shows this season — Polly Bergen turned the assignment down. ABC-TV is interested in a new series, "Maggie," which stars Margaret O'Brien.

ABC-TV and Kaiser Aluminum are expected to announce a deal that'll bring a flock of top grade movies, some of them post-1948, to Sunday night TV—they'll be spotted opposite Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen. Some of the reported titles: "High Noon," "African Queen" and "Moulin Rouge."

Eve Arden will return to TV next fall on CBS as a lady novelist in a new series, "It Gives Me Great Pleasure" — the show looks set for Tuesday nights. Lawrence Welk, who started out as a summer replacement, celebrates his second anniversary on ABC-TV July 2.

Burt Lancaster Faces Wrath of Irate Columnists

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Burt Lancaster has taken on assorted cattle rustlers, Indians and Anna Magnani in recent movies, but now he bravely faces irate columnists for playing a "real life" villainous Broadway scribe.

"I've never sought publicity—I've never had a press agent or cared about column mentions," is one of the outspoken Lancaster's philosophies, which may be just as well, for he portrays a New York columnist who's one of the archest villains in screen history in the absorbing drama, "The Sweet Smell of Success."

"I'm going to New York June 21 for the opening of the picture," said Lancaster. "I guess the columnists will be ready with sharpened knives. Ha! Nothing pleases me more."

My reaction to the movie about columnists is that the Broadway variety certainly leads an exciting life. According to the story, they make or break careers with the snap of a finger, tell off senators and are bowed to by press agents and maitre d's at Toots Shor's and El Morocco.

But the columnist in the film, as described by press releases from the producers, Hecht-Hill-Lancaster, also is "an egomaniac who would be a revengeful god, arrogant, cruel, deceitful, a man with an acid soul and of acid words, uncompromising when he pounces for the kill...."

The columnist, called J. J. Hunsecker, writes a gossip column, has a nationwide television show, prowls around New York in a police car and holds court in night clubs.

To find out why Lancaster dared face the wrath of the Fourth Estate I interviewed him at Wil Wright's Ice cream parlor (Wil Wright's isn't exactly Toots Shor's or El Morocco but at least I can get a table there).

Doctors Find Uses For the Tranquilizers

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Since the introduction of the various tranquilizing drugs, doctors have found innumerable uses for them.

No longer are they used solely to relieve tension states or anxiety neurosis. Although this still remains their prime purpose, they now are employed to treat a variety of disorders.

Let's look at just one of these tranquilizers, meprobamate, or Miltown, as it is more popularly known.

As with similar drugs, countless clinical studies of Miltown have been made and reactions of hundreds of patients have been checked thoroughly.

Acting in its tranquilizing capacity, it calms the nervous patient suffering from anxiety, restlessness, hyperemotionalism and irritability. It relaxes the muscular tensions associated with these symptoms.

It also is effective in inducing sleep, although it is not a hypnotic in the usual sense. Its value in treating insomnia appears to be that it removes the physical and emotional tensions that obstruct the onset of natural sleep.

Tension headaches are also relieved by this drug, apparently because it alleviates the underlying anxiety and relaxes muscle tensions.

It is valuable, too, in treating premenstrual tension and for a wide variety of conditions involving muscle spasm. It has helped cerebral palsy victims and is reported of "considerable value" in treating petit mal.

It has value, also, as an adjunct to electroshock therapy. When given the drug prior to electroshock, patients were less apprehensive and experienced less confusion after the shock treatment.

Miltown helps to control withdrawal symptoms during the sobering-up phase of alcoholism. It is also used to help the alcoholic stay off liquor by cutting down his symptoms of anxiety, tension and insomnia. It often makes him more willing to cooperate with the doctors trying to help him break the booze habit.
